| Title | Go Digital Kuranda
| Presenter | Kellie Ayre, Mareeba Shire Library
| Abstract | The relocation of Kuranda Library and Council Office to larger premises has opened the door for the library to host a series of 20 Digital Business workshops designed to help local small businesses expand and market their businesses online. Council renovated the new library premises to ensure a comfortable, modern space for the free workshops designed to support new business start-ups and grow existing small businesses by providing access to current information on a wide range of social media forums and specialist digital marketing instruction. The workshops were purpose-designed as a tool for local Kuranda artisans and market owners to enhance their business opportunities through specialised training and support.

| Title | Local history digitisation project – QANZAC100 on the Atherton Tablelands
| Presenter | Gwen Price, Tablelands Regional Council Libraries
| Abstract | World War 1 information pertaining to the Atherton Tablelands is presented in a variety of formats and regional events. The recent QANZAC100 Heritage Leaders Workshops in Brisbane have been the inspiration for this project.

| Title | Library carpentry (Poster with demo)
| Presenter | Scott Dale, Client Services Librarian, James Cook University
| Abstract | James Cook University hosted a Library Carpentry workshop in July of 2016. The Library Carpentry course provides training in computing skills for library professionals. The basic aim is to work more efficiently with data and to get more done in less time, automating tasks where possible. What did we actually do? What is it all about? And was it worth it?

| Title | Supporting remote campus students on Thursday Island (5 min video poster)
| Presenter | Bronwen Forster, Liaison Librarian, James Cook University
| Abstract | This project has been facilitated by funds granted from the Student Services Amenities fee. Three staff, a Librarian, an Indigenous Academic Skills Advisor and an Indigenous Student Mentor, attended the Thursday Island Study Centre in O week with a follow up visit by the Librarian in week 9. Sessions included skill building in analysing an information need, finding information, note taking, writing, editing, referencing and using online collaborative tools. Student responses to the programme have been overwhelmingly positive.
