OVERVIEW
There is a growing recognition of the need and value of clinical supervision for all health professionals. Clinical Supervision is a regular, dedicated time for reflection on all aspects of professional practice. Clinical supervision aims to improve care, and support the professional development and well-being of staff.

This eight-day foundational training equips potential clinical supervisors with a variety of techniques and approaches to conduct quality individual and group clinical supervision. For many professions clinical supervision is now a mandatory condition of registration and ongoing practice and forms an integral part of Continued Professional Development (CPD).

COURSE CONTENT
The training equips clinical supervisors with a variety of techniques / skills that can be used in clinical supervision practice. These include reviewing and refreshing understanding of: role theory, role analysis, concretization techniques, action learning techniques and role training as clinical supervision interventions.
